Why am I being offered RxMapper?

Your employer is providing this cutting-edge solution with the goal of getting you on the right medications, right away.

Why is DNA helpful for selecting medications?

Your DNA contains all the genes that make you unique. Analyzing these genes allows RxMapper to understand how your body processes medications, enabling us to provide precise, personalized recommendations.

What information do I receive from RxMapper?

After your telehealth consult, you receive a report that details your personalized medication recommendations and RxMapper's toll-free number to contact us with any questions.

Do you communicate with my physician?

Yes, RxMapper sends out medication recommendations directly to your doctor, and our team collaborates with them to put your personalized medication plan in place.

Does my employer receive my health information?

No. RxMapper respects your privacy and does not share your health information with your employer.
